OPEN DOOR THEATER TAKES FLIGHT WITH HONK! MARCH 20-29

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Acton, MA - February 8, 2026: Open Door Theater of Acton, one of the only integrated and accessible theater companies in the country, will stage the award-winning musical HONK! this March. *HONK!, a musical telling of "The Ugly Duckling" story is a heartwarming celebration of being different that is sure to delight audiences of all ages during its run next month at the Dragonfly Theater at R.J. Grey Jr. High School in Acton, MA.

Ugly looks quite a bit different from his siblings, and others are quick to notice and point this out. Ugly is kind-hearted, awkward and innocent, and his journey of self-discovery is the heart of the show. This messaging supports the mission of Open Door Theater and will resonate with audiences now more than ever. On the surface of the pond, this show appears to be a charming adaptation of the classic children's fairy tale, but when you dive deeper, you discover profound social commentary disguised in feathers and farmyard whimsy.

"The inclusive messaging of HONK! embodies Open Door's philosophy," said Sam Gould, President of Open Door Theater. "Ugly's journey mirrors the real experiences of Black and Queer youth, immigrants, the disability community, and anyone marked as 'other' who must navigate hostile environments simply to exist. Just like Open Door Theater, this show dares to assert that the default state of community should be inclusion and that "fowl" behavior will no longer be tolerated."

"HONK! is a joyful reminder that being different is something to celebrate. At its heart, it's about belonging, kindness and learning to see value in what makes us unique," said Director Teri Shea. "Directing HONK! at Open Door Theater feels like coming home. When my kids were young, they grew up doing theater at Open Door, in a space where everyone was welcome, and that spirit still defines Open Door today. Being able to return now and share this experience with my adult children and their loved ones makes this production especially meaningful."

"It's very healing to my younger self, getting to be part of a production that is so welcoming and uplifting of everyone, no matter what," said Raye. They play the central character, Ugly. "Ugly eventually finds a place that celebrates things about him that others had mocked, and I think finding that community is what this show is all about."

“I have a little ‘duckling’ of my own,” said Maddie Freeman who plays Ugly’s mother, Ida, “so these themes of motherhood are hitting extra hard. Ida is fiercely supportive of her son when the rest of the farm animals bully him. I admire that she doesn't care what others think; she listens to her gut and loves him unconditionally.”

Open Door’s high-quality productions feature actors who are Deaf, Disabled, Autistic, Neurodiverse, Blind and/or have mobility and cognitive disabilities. Open Door is a recognized leader in Best Practices in Arts Access in New England and was awarded the Most Accessible Cultural Organization in the Commonwealth from the Massachusetts Cultural Council Up Initiative in 2019.

Now in its 46th year, Open Door has provided accessible opportunities for all including underserved audiences and participants to enjoy live theater. All performances are relaxed/sensory friendly and feature ASL interpretation and open captioning. There will be audio-described performances on the second weekend.
